

WELCOME TO NYTS MOODLE

New York Theological Seminary has always been committed to making its certificate and degree programs as accessible as possible. NYTS uses MOODLE (an acronym for Modular Object-Oriented Dynamic Learning Environment) as an interactive website with features and activities designed to engage learners and promote collaborative learning. All learning at NYTS is supported by MOODLE. Within the MOODLE website you will find student announcements, news about community life, and the resources you need for successfully completing all classes for your specific program. Once inside your own account (protected by your password), you will find every course being offered for each semester or intensive period listed and several other helpful resources you might need.

Instructions for New Students

First, request to activate your Moodle account by sending an email to helpdesk@mail.nyts.edu with the information below:

- Full Name
- Course Name
- Student ID #
- Email Address

You will then receive an email providing your username and password along with a code specific to your course. Log into MOODLE and look for the course you registered for, then activate the course by using the self-enrollment tool. During self-enrollment you will be required to put in your course code (with no caps) from the email. Once you complete self-enrollment, you will be ready to access all that NYTS MOODLE has to offer.

Returning Students

Returning students or students who have previously activated their Moodle account should already have login credentials. Please proceed to activate the courses you have registered for using the course code as the enrollment key (no caps). If you forgot your username and/or password, you may also send an email to helpdesk@mail.nyts.edu.
